Juana Romani Muse Oubliée - Diane Poirier
2016-03-03

Ce roman retrace la destinée incroyable de Juana Romani, une émigrée, italienne qui a su s'imposer à Paris comme peintre dans un monde réservé aux hommes. Du Montparnasse bohème de la Belle Époque aux salons mondains du Tout Paris de la Troisième République, de Venise à Monaco, elle a su séduire. De son ascension fulgurante de modèle à l'âge de 14 ans jusqu'à sa célébrité de femme peintre, Juana Romani, aussi belle que rebelle a connu la gloire avant de sombrer brusquement dans l'oubli. Mais pourquoi cette muse excentrique et adulée, inspiratrice de Henner, Roybet, Collin, Lumière a-t-elle disparue ?

Death within the Text - Adriana Teodorescu
2019-03-13

The book tackles the challenging theme of death as seen through the lens of literature and its connections with history, the visual arts, anthropology, philosophy and other fields in humanities. It searches for answers to three questions: what can we know about death; how is death socialised; and how and for which purposes is death aesthetically shaped? Unlike many other publications, the volume does not endorse the fallacy of over-simplifying death by seeing it either in an exclusively positive light or by reducing it to a purely literary figure. Using literature's potential to stimulate critical thinking, many contemporary stereotypical configurations of death and dying are debunked, and many hitherto unforeseen ways in which death functions as a complex trigger of meaning-making are revealed. The book proves that death is an inexhaustible source of meanings which should be understood as peremptorily plural, discontinuous, problematic, competitive, and often conflictual. It offers original contributions to the field of death studies and also to literary and cultural studies.

Love's Litany - Kevin Kopelson 1994

This is an extensive analysis of the relation of erotic philosophy to homosexuality in the modern period. The book focuses on homoerotic (mis)appropriations and subversions of homoerotic conceptions of romantic love in texts by eight authors: Oscar Wilde, Andre Gide, Ronald Firbank, Virginia Woolf, Gertrude Stein, Marguerite Yourcenar, Mary Renault and Roland Barthes. In doing so, the author both positions these authors as experimental and influential erotic theorists and protests against the critical undervaluation of love (as opposed to desire) in the construction of sexuality as we know it.

The other title of this book is "The Nude Maja."
It is also the title of one of the numerous paintings by Goya displaying dancers. In times of Goya, the word "maja" was used to describe dancers and could be translated as "showy" or "flashy." Goya made this type the central figure of many of his genre paintings, and the dramatist Ramón de la Cruz based most of his sainetes—farical pieces in one act—upon the customs and rivalries of these women.
Women Painters of the World - Walter Shaw

Sparrow 1905
Women Painters of the World is an early survey book of art history featuring female artists.
